The Cloud

I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers,
From the seas and the streams;
I bear light shade for the leaves when laid
In their noonday dreams.
From my wings are shaken the dews that waken
The sweet buds every one,
When rocked to rest on their mother's breast,
As she dances about the sun.
I wield the flail of the lashing hail,
And whiten the green plains under,
And then again I dissolve it in rain,
And laugh as I pass in thunder.

I am the daughter of Earth and Water,
And the nursling of the Sky;
I pass through the pores of the ocean and shores;
I change, but I cannot die.
For after the rain when with never a stain
The pavilion of Heaven is bare,
And the winds and sunbeams with their convex gleams
Build up the blue dome of air,
I silently laugh at my own cenotaph,
And out of the caverns of rain,
Like a child from the womb, like a ghost from the tomb,
I arise and unbuild it again.

PERCY BYSSHE SHELLEY

Dedication

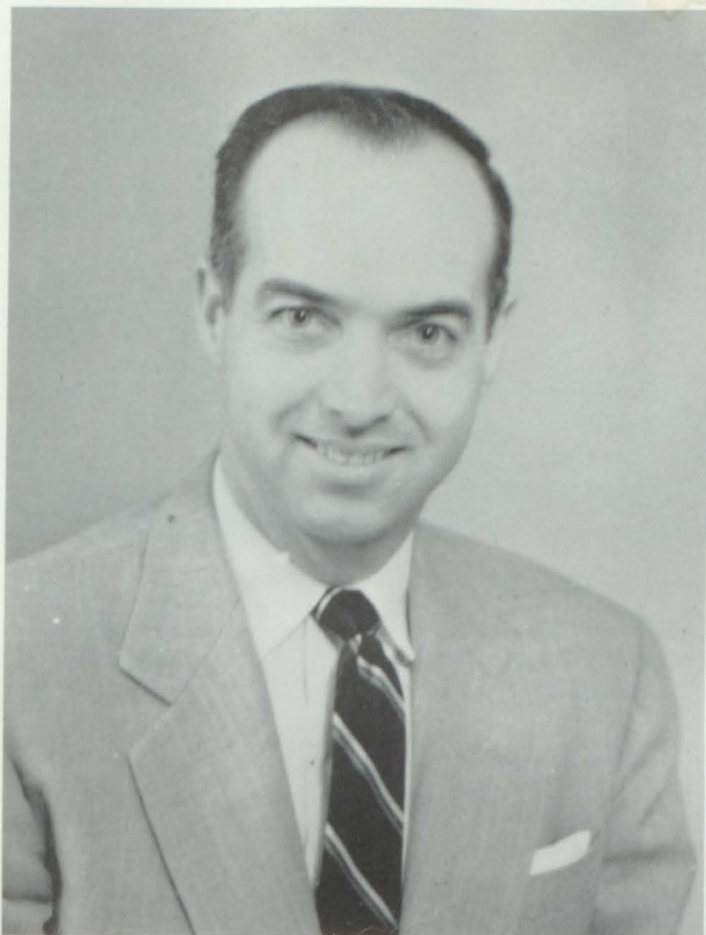

In appreciation for the patience, guidance and understanding you have shown us in the past four years, we, the Class of 1963, dedicate our year-book to you, Mr. Graves.

Appreciation

We also wish to express our appreciation to you, Mrs. Ryan, for it was you who truly prepared us for our high school years.

Your story, while a member of your community's school, as contained in the 1963 Deerleap, is but one entry in a continuing record. All who review this publication will praise your efforts. May you have cause to be proud of all future entries in your record, for, in the final analysis, your record is you.

Tune: Let the Rest of the World Go By

Farewell, Bristol High,
An old friend and true.
We know we'll always
Cherish memories of you.

Our teachers and the friends we've made
All have helped us on our way.

And as we go
Our separate ways,
We know we'll not forget
Our high school days.

So, farewell, Bristol High,
An old friend and true.
We'll cherish all those dear memories of you.

CLASS POEM

Senior's Farewell

The road has been a long one;
The days have gone by fast.
The world now lies before us
With opportunities vast.

And though we're graduating,
Our life has just begun;
Because life's fullest meaning
For us is yet to come.

When we were all first graders,
We were at the bottom of the pile;
But now we're Seniors at B.H.S.
And we'll all be gone in a while.

Live well your years in high school;
Have fun in whatever you do;
For someday you'll be Seniors,
And you'll be leaving here, too.

Farewell, Oh Bristol High School.
Though from you we must depart,
We will always keep our memories of you
Deep down in our hearts.

We Seniors Through The Years

Class

On the eventful date of September, 1951, a group of hopefuls started on their educational journey. It took considerable starting in some cases, but Mrs. Dike and Mrs. Hannon finally convinced us that school was just as interesting as the playground. From then on, teachers had plenty to do! Of the present class, there remain the following charter members: Tommy Booska, Charlie Cousino, David Williams, Donna Wheelock, Rodney Smith, Van Orvis, Judy-Kaye Hill, Anne Tyler, Mike Tierney, Glynn Cragen, Alison Bristol, Mary Kenyon, Steve Gay, Norman Booska, Dennis Lattrell, Mickey Bedard, Betty Lathrop, and Bruce Cousino. We ended the year with a picnic in Norton's pasture.

In the second grade we were under the guidance of Mrs. Orvis and Mrs. DeCoursey. Susan Adams joined us this year. We concluded the year with a picnic on the park.

Miss O'Connor soon anchored us down for another year of hard work. We were joined together as one class this year. One of our top athletes, Eddie Coddington, joined the ranks. This year we went to Monkton Pond for our picnic. This was our first picnic outside the village and we felt very pleased to be allowed to travel so far away from home.

After a summer of fun we turned our footsteps toward the schoolhouse. Mrs. Trombley was waiting patiently to treat us to history and geography. We advanced a lot this year but we certainly had fun. We went to Weaver's farm for our picnic where we spent the day having pony rides, playing games, and eating cake and ice cream.

Our next step forward was the fifth grade with Miss Leonard as our teacher. She soon made everyone an amateur artist. We again went to Monkton Pond for our picnic, where we played relay games and went wading.

After another joyous holiday, Mrs. Gregory welcomed us back to another school year. Some of the class served on the School Safety Patrol. We really progressed this year when we finally learned to write with a pen and real ink. In the spring, we visited the Marble Exhibit in Proctor.

Leaving the grades behind, we proudly advanced into the mysteries of Junior High School. The first of the year was a bit confused by being in the wrong class, going against the traffic pattern, and many things. However, Mrs. Whitcomb saw us through a successful year, in which we had a ham raffle. We enjoyed being part of an enjoyable Christmas party held with the eighth grade. Our picnic was an eventful day spent at Ethan Allen Park. The main attractions were the roller skating rink and the climb to the tower.

History

In the eighth grade, we finally secured the privilege of having an upstairs room. To add to our financial status, we had a "Sock Hop" dance. Ellen Tyler and John Desjardins joined our crew. We traveled to Ethan Allen Park for our picnic under the guidance of Mrs. Ryan. Now, we were ready for the grandest, most glorious and happiest time of our lives--high school!!!

We had now hit the rapids! Mr. Graves became our class advisor and has faithfully remained with us during our four years of high school. He saw us through that dreaded initiation and a successful year. Starksboro sent forth Earlene Orvis and Linda Orvis. Lincoln gave us Dayle Orvis, John Masterson, Morris Reynolds, Barbara Clark, and Joyce Masterson. We also ordered our class rings. We closed the year with a picnic at Bayside.

Our freshman days over, we were now sophisticated sophomores and made the most of it. This proved to be a prosperous year which included: a "Sock Hop," a "Roaring Twenties" dance and a raffle. Our class rings arrived and were our prize possessions. Ernestine Jennings joined our class this year. We visited Bayside again.

We dove very willingly into our junior year. We were very busy with the prom and were very pleased with the results. It was an experience we will never forget. We had a romantic scene with brightly colored flowers fitting the theme, "Enchanted Island." Evergreens and lilacs were used to carry out the beauty and mystery of the setting. It took patience and teamwork on the part of our advisor, Mr. Graves, as well as all the classmates. This year, Lake St. Catherine was the destination of our class picnic.

We've finally reached the last milestone of our journey. This year will be, no doubt, a symbol of years to come, of our dearest and happiest days. We've continued our campaign to raise funds. We have had a dance and have initiated the Freshmen. We topped this off with the Freshman Reception. Also we have had our Senior Class Trip. On February 10, we went to Montreal to view the famed "Ice Follies." Alan Quittner and Betty Curavoo joined us the final year. We are all now waiting for Graduation Day, cherishing always the fun and friendships of the past twelve years. We hope we have set good examples for underclassmen, and we hope we have added a little to dear old Bristol High School.

Betty Lathrop

Class

The year is 1975. The place--Anywhere, U.S.A. The man--John Q. Alumnus, a graduate of Bristol High School in a small Vermont town located near the center of that state. It is early morning, and John decides to take a day off from work to visit his former classmates.

As John steps into his turbo-copter, he chuckles, realizing how air travel has advanced. "My, when I went to school, there were only a few commercial jets which could travel at 600 miles an hour. Now almost everyone has a 1200 mile an hour craft in his port."

John pushes the starter of this turbo-copter and soon he is speeding toward the west coast. An hour later he touches his craft down upon the decks of the world's largest aircraft carrier, the Enterprise IV. As he taxis his craft up to one of the huge elevators, he notes two familiar faces. They are those of his old classmates, Mickey Bedard and Glynn Cragen, now chief petty officers in the Navy. The three chat for a while and then a huge ultrasonic jet touches down on the carrier. Mickey explains that the pilot is one of the Navy's best, Col David Williams, also of Bristol High. Dave is a test pilot and was one of the first to fly the world's first nuclear fighter.

After a brief discussion with his friends, John heads below the deck to the ship's huge nuclear reactor, where he finds Dennis Lattrell, a nuclear technician, fast at work upon the huge control rods.

On the way toward the eastern part of the country, the impossible happens. One of the huge rotors on the copter comes loose and the craft plummets toward the earth out of control. Being over a thickly covered Vermont forest, John's escape via parachute brings him down on a soft pine tree. John merely injures his ankle, and is soon picked up by a passing tank from a nearby army base. Three officers in the tank are old friends of John. They are Dayle Orvis, Charlie Cousino, and Van Orvis. He is told by them that the land adjacent to the base is owned by none other than Bruce Cousino, a very prominent farmer. Soon John is on his way to a local hospital to undergo observation. There he meets several of his classmates who work on his floor. They are Anne Tyler, a staff nurse; Linda Orvis, a registered nurse and instructor at the nursing school; and Betty Curavoo, a nurse's aid. On the way to the X-ray room, he meets the brilliant and famous woman physician, Dr. Judy-Kaye Hill.

Later when John is discharged, he happens across Susan Adams, fast at work at her job as a medical secretary to the hospital director. He also sees Barbara Clark, the new secretary to the hospital superintendent. As he steps out of the hospital, he recognizes the smiling face of John Desjardins, a captain in the U.S. Air Force. John is on crutches and a short conversation reveals that he had a slight accident while attempting to land his jet.

Badly in need of a new copter, John calls the Pratt and Whitney Company in Connecticut to order another one. Soon his new plane arrives with two technicians. They are Tom Booska and Norman Booska. On the way back to the factory, the three fly over Yankee Stadium where the New York Giants are walloping the Green Bay Packers before a full house. John discovers that since Coach Ed Coddington has taken over the team, it has not been beaten.

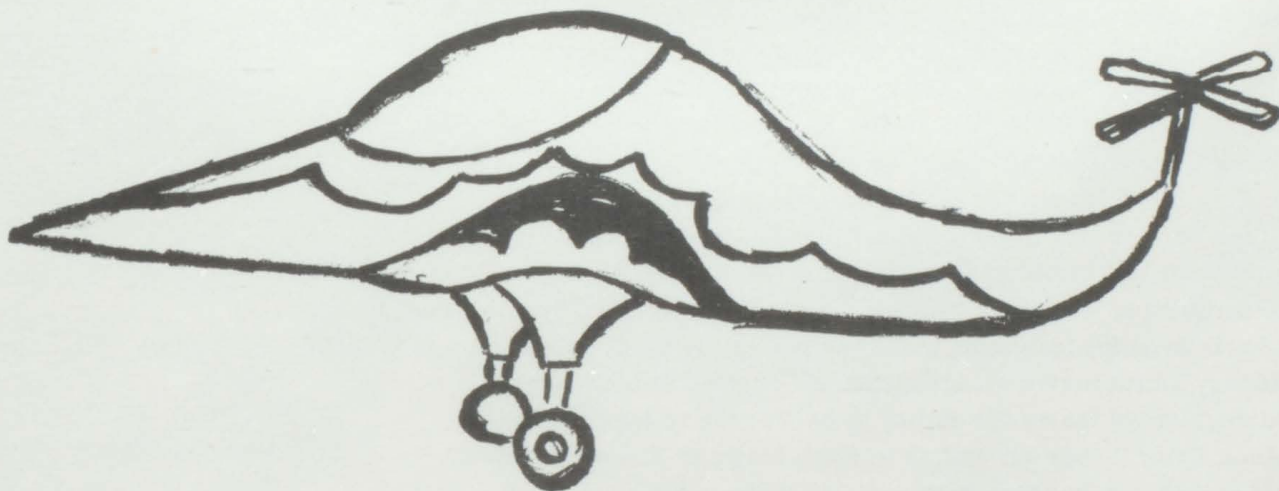

Prophecy

After landing near Hartford, John decides to look around a bit. As he moves into the business district, he notes a sign over a large building reading, "The Hartford House of Beauty." He soon finds that this great business is operated by four fellow classmates, Mary Kenyon, Ellen Tyler, Joyce Masterson, and Ernie Jennings. They tell him that at the Remington-Rand Building he could find two more of his classmates, busy as accountants. John leaves the building and boards a city bus, operated by Morris Reynolds. He informs John that John Masterson and Mike Tierney are now vice-presidents of the growing typewriter firm. One of their busy accountants turns out to be Donna Wheelock.

John then heads for the midwest to see several more of his classmates. Having a slight toothache, he heads for a dentist's office, where he sees Betty Lathrop, a dental hygienist. John then goes to the school, where he finds several more friends. They are Steve Gay, principal and math teacher; Rodney Smith, English teacher; Earlene Orvis, a junior high teacher; and Alan Quittner, a gym teacher. Speaking with them he discovers that Alison Bristol is a professor of mathematics at a local university.

With this last visit, John starts his journey home. He has had a hard day, but he decides that it was really worth it to see how happy and successful all his ex-classmates are. He hopes that all graduates of Bristol High School will achieve their goals, and have happy and successful futures.

Class Will

We, the Senior Class, of Bristol High School, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament, hereby revoking any and all wills made by us before this date.

To the Seventh grade we leave our undone accomplishments.

To the Eighth grade we leave the fun of initiation, soon to come.

To the Freshmen we leave as happy a four years as the last have been for us.

To the Sophomores we leave our ability to fight during their class meetings.

To the Juniors we leave a more organized Senior year.

To the Faculty we leave another class as bright and polite as ours.

Susan Adams leaves her pep and liveliness to Lloyd Dike.

Mickey Bedard leaves the walk from his house to the school to Dennis McDonough.

Norman Booska leaves his height to Buzzy O'Shea.

Tommy Booska leaves his ability to run a cash register to Dennis Adams.

Alison Bristol leaves her position as the only girl on the boys' basketball team to some other lucky girl.

Barbara Clark leaves her ability to go with three guys at once to Kathy Grant.

Eddie Codding leaves his pre-game "butterflies" to Rod Cousino.

Bruce Cousino leaves his ability to be sincere and quiet in class to Bernadette Cassidy.

Charlie Cousino leaves his ability to tell jokes in Study Hall to Kathy Lord.

Glynn Cragen leaves his nickname, "Gid," to anyone who can live up to it.

Betty Curavoo leaves her great sense of humor to her loving brother Tinker.

John Desjardins leaves his ability to play fullback to Jon Filion.

Stevie Gay leaves his ability to go with one person to Myke Yashko.

Judy-Kaye Hill leaves her interest at Harvard to Judy Gardner.

Ernestine Jennings leaves her calmness to Charlie Cardell.

Mary Kenyon leaves her interest in Vergennes to Elaine Bromley.

Betty Lathrop leaves her quiet manner to Warner Pierce.

Dennis Lattrell leaves his athletic ability to Brian LaDeau.

John Masterson leaves his ability to pitch to Roddy Cousino.

Joyce Masterson leaves her ability to be on time to her brother Billy.

Dayle Orvis leaves his ability to drop from an A+ to a D in P. A. D. to Warner Pierce.

Earlene Orvis leaves her ability to drive to Shelly Bouvier.

Linda Orvis leaves her ability to ski to Roger Thompson.

Van Orvis leaves his good fortune in school to anyone that needs it.

Alan Quittner leaves his habit of talking out in class to Bonnie Kennedy.

Morris Reynolds leaves his ability to get on the honor roll to George Wendell.

Rodney Smith leaves his nickname of "Snuffy" to Larry Smith.

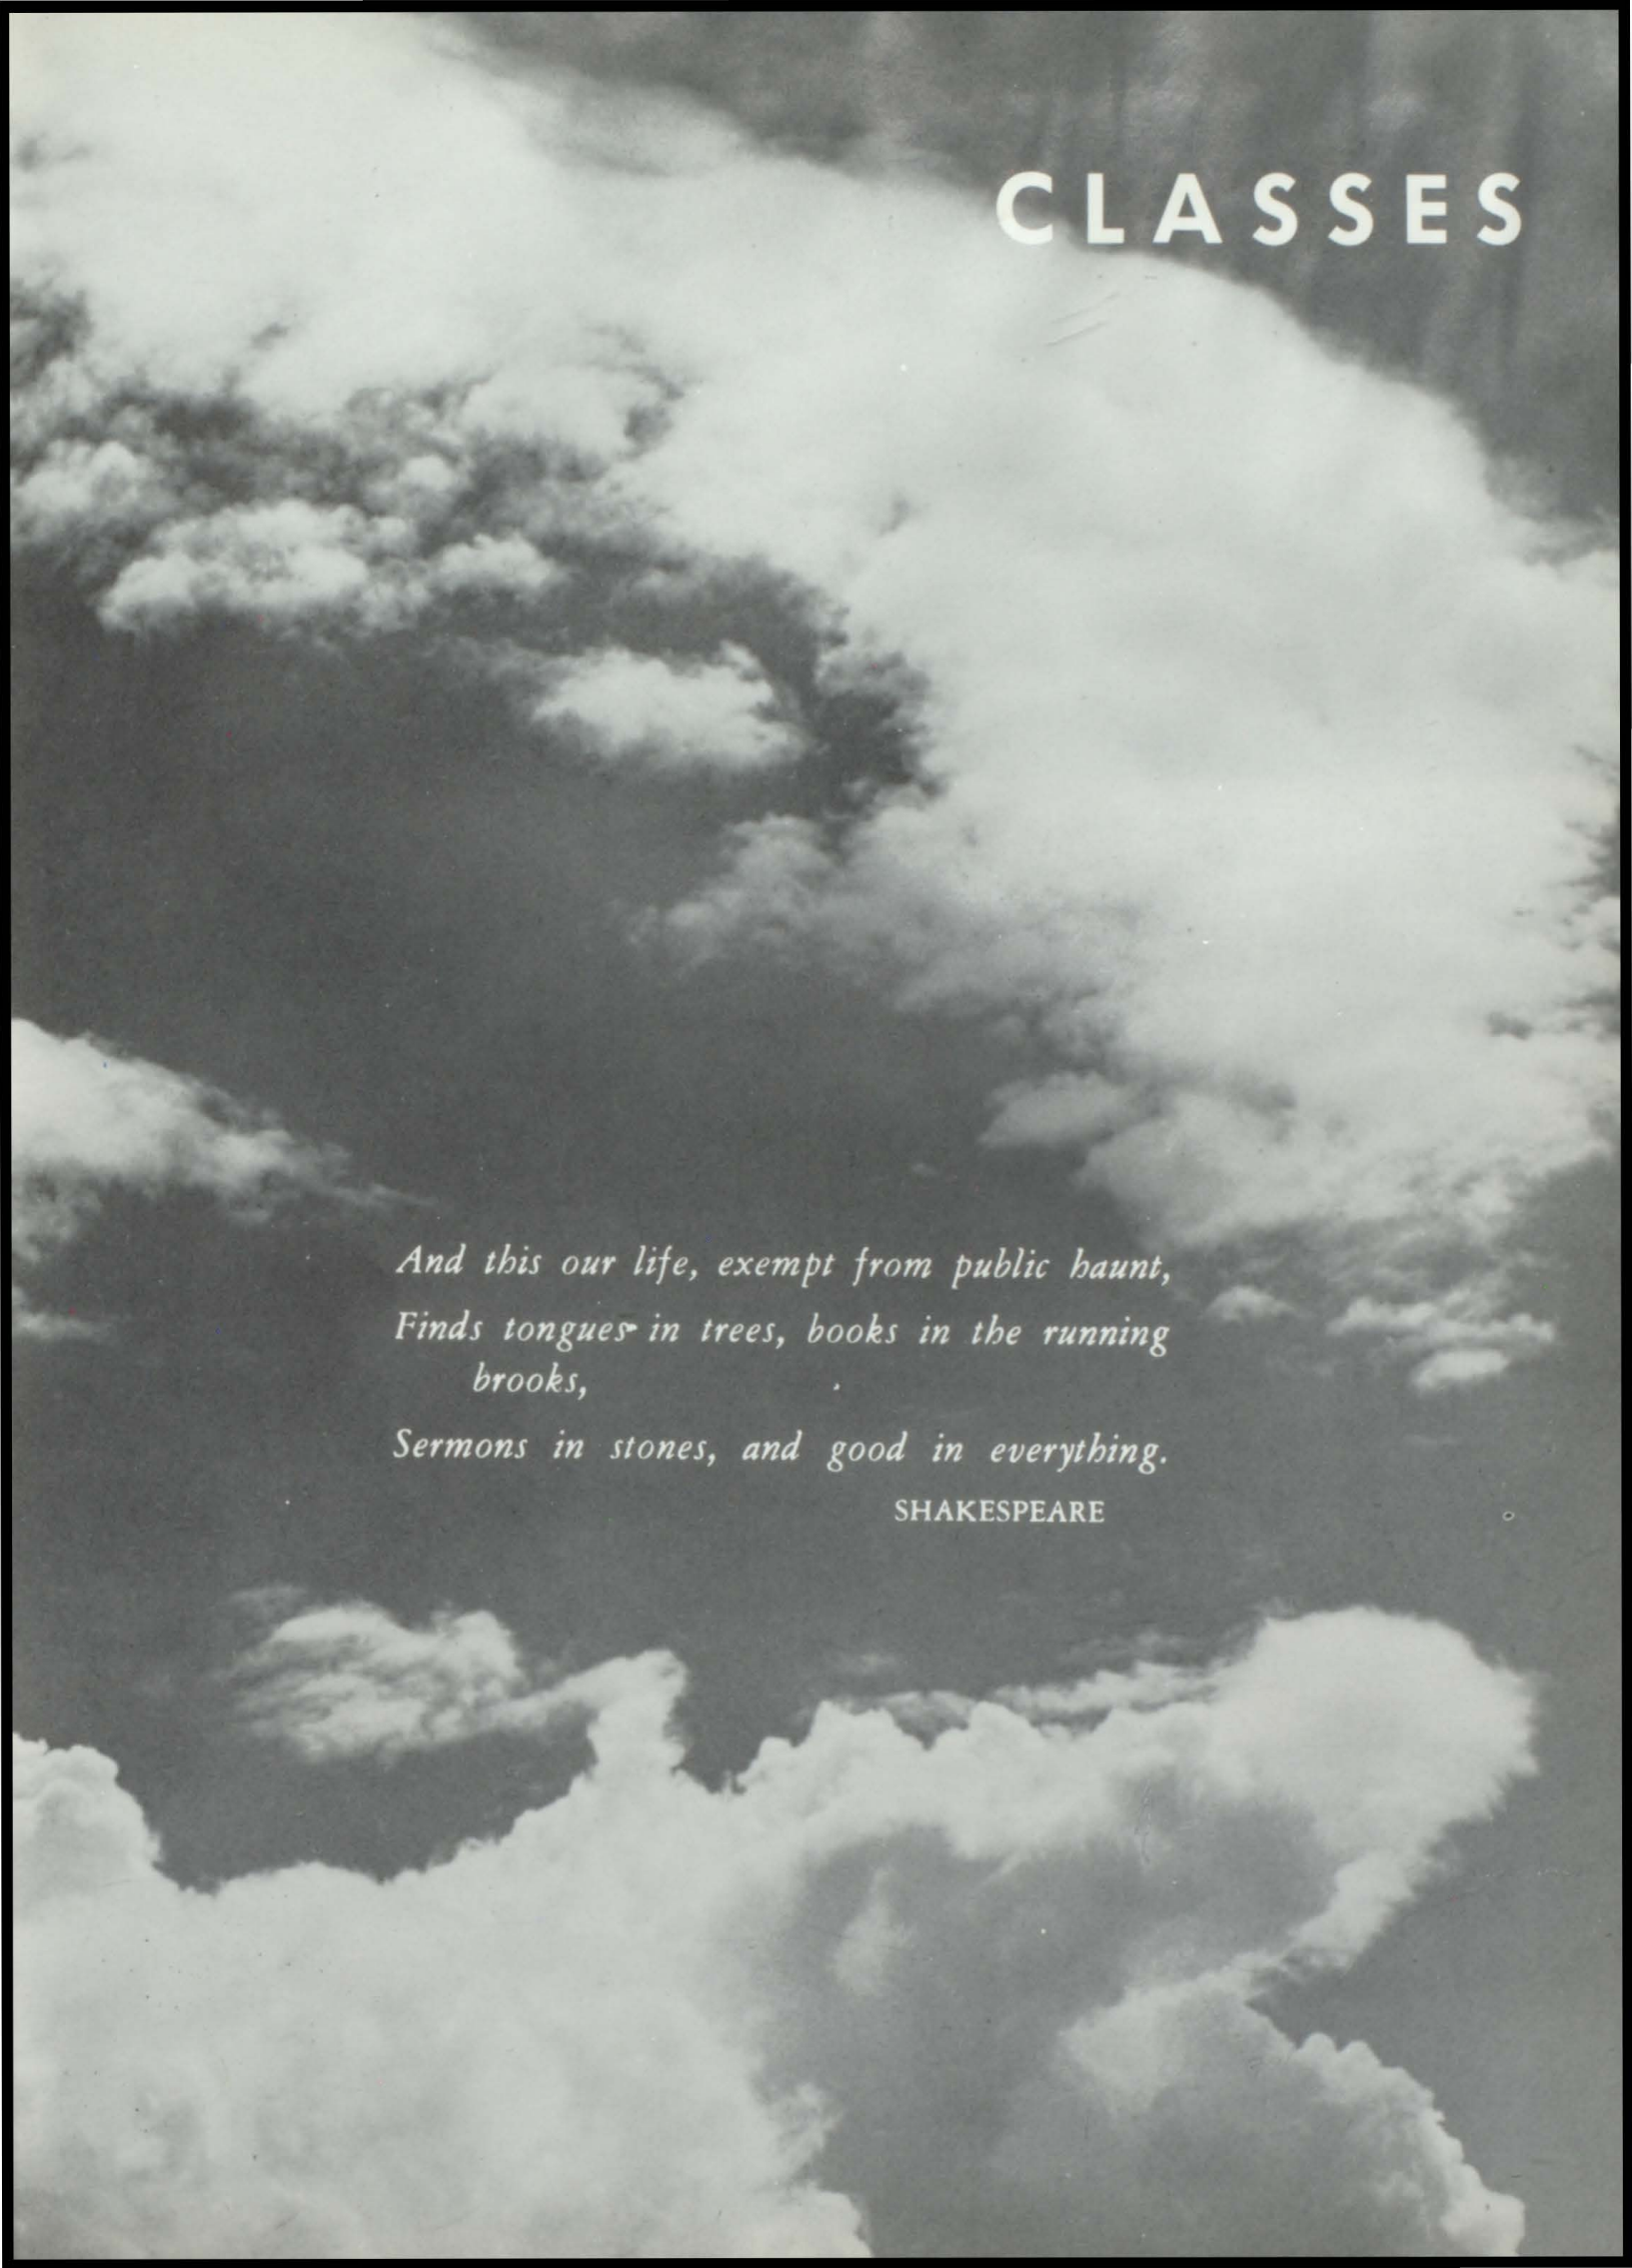

Mike Tierney leaves his ability to be on time to Dave Adams.

Anne Tyler leaves her ability to blush easily to Bill Moncrief.

Ellen Tyler leaves her cheerleading ability to Roxanne Austin.

Donna Wheelock leaves her ability to behave in Study Hall to Roger Thibeault, Ross Orvis, and Reggie Dearborn.

David Williams leaves his speed to David Clark.

Social Studies Create an Understanding of Our Nation and the World

A new course this year, Economics, taught by Mr. Dowd, gives us an understanding of how supply and demand affect our everyday life.

Students in U. S. History not only study the past of our nation, but also the current happenings.

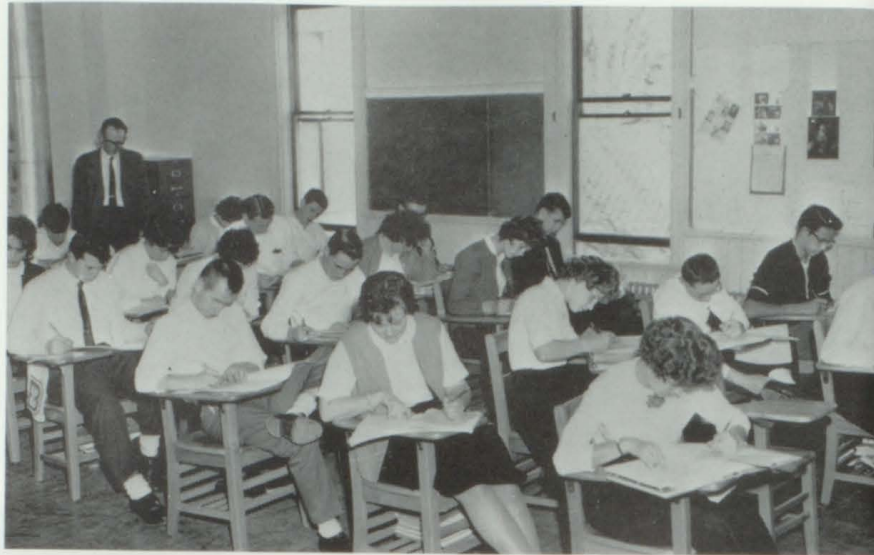

Students in P. A. D. study the problems of our democracy, perhaps searching for some possible answers.

Mr. Citro teaches his Civics students the duties and rights of a good citizen.

English Trains Our Minds to Think Clearly and to Speak and Write Expressively

College Preparatory English 11 and 12 is a study of American and English literature with particular attention to types of literature and development of literary movements.

The primary aim of this course, Speech, is to produce confidence in any speaking situation through numerous and varied individual and group speaking experiences.

Senior English 12 is a varied program of reading, writing, and speaking activities to improve the art of expression, the development of thinking, and the appreciation of literature.

In English 10 many literary epics are discussed. In addition the reading of several novels and writing of book reports are required.

Foreign Languages Are Essential in Communicating With Our Neighbors

German IV is a new course offered for the first time this year to students who have had three years of German and who wish to become more proficient in the language.

In French II students are presented a maximum of French within a minimum of time.

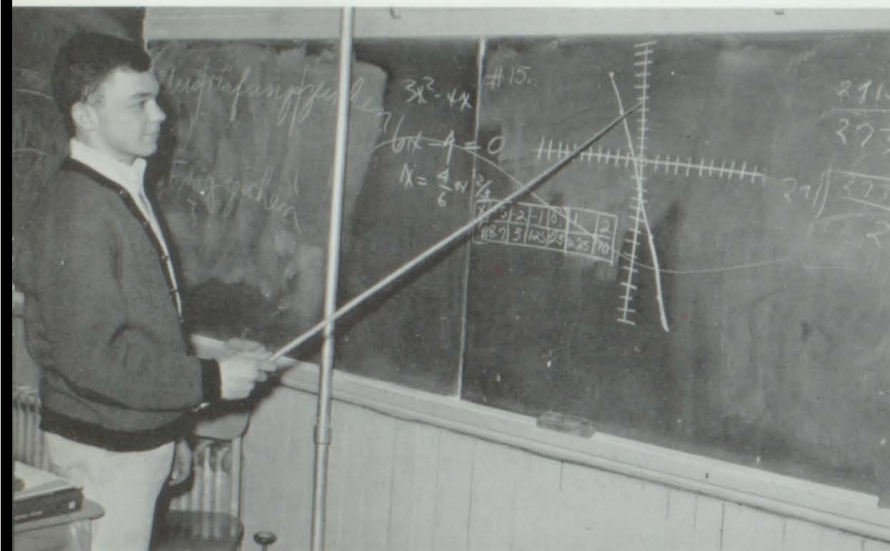

In German I students are introduced to the German language with opportunity to hear, speak, read and write it.

Latin students acquire knowledge that serves as a basis for other languages and they also study Roman life, customs, history, and mythology.

Mathematics Is Becoming More Important in Modern Advancement

Calculus is a new course of higher mathematics dealing with methods of analysis.

Trigonometry deals with ratios and relations between those ratios in finding the unknown sides and angles of any triangle.

Algebra I is a course of generalized arithmetic that uses letters and other symbols to analyze relationships.

Algebra II is an advanced course of concepts of algebraic equations and formulas.

The Field of Science Offers a Challenge in This Space Age

The new course, Qualitative Analysis, introduces to the students an analysis of unknown mixtures.

In Physics many important physical laws and how to solve problems in heat and mechanics form the basis of the course.

In Chemistry booklearning and experiments dealing with the composition and properties of substances play an important part.

Biology students study about the origin, history, physical characteristics, and habits of plant and animal life.

Business Courses Prepare Students for Employment or Further Study

Every student in high school should have at least one year of typewriting for his or her personal use, if not for business purposes.

Clerical Practice consists of a study of qualifications and abilities necessary for office employment, including filing and business machines.

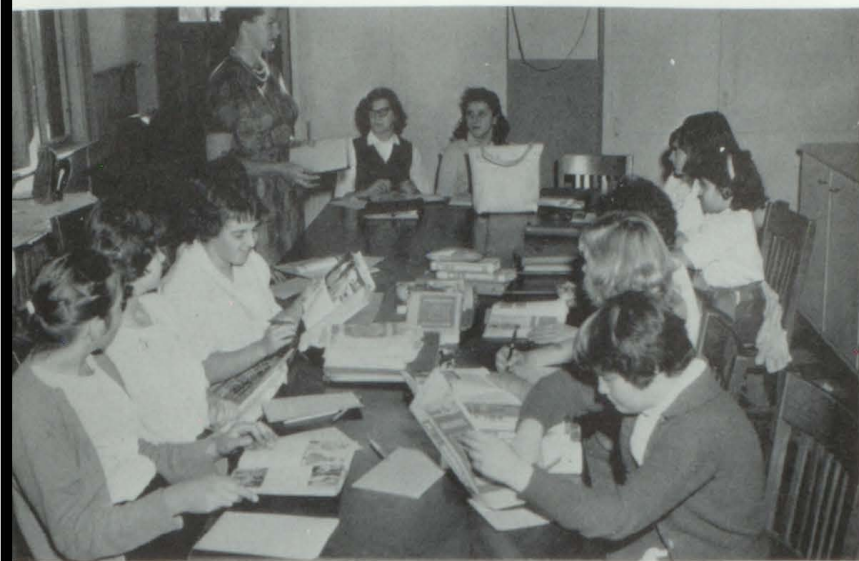

A study of bookkeeping in high school will aid each student as an individual to keep records which are necessary for personal as well as for business use.

Shorthand is primarily a vocational subject training for employment in stenographic work.

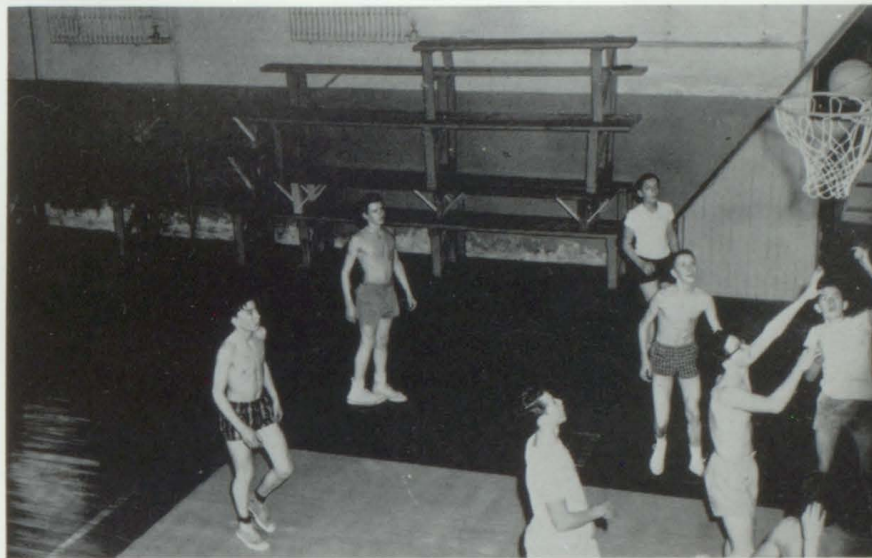

Other Classes Help Develop Physical and Vocational Aspects of a Student's Life

Physical education promotes much needed physical and mental exercise for the student.

High School students learn valuable lessons in budget planning, cooking and advanced sewing.

ACTIVITIES

Heigh-ho! sing heigh-ho! unto the green holly;

Most friendship is feigning, most loving mere folly:

Then, heigh-ho, the holly!

This life is most jolly!
